1. Neighborhood Advisory Council to Discuss KAT, Awards Luncheon

The Neighborhood Advisory Council --- which advises the Mayor and the city administration on matters involving neighborhoods and neighborhood organizations --- will meet from 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 14, at the Cansler YMCA, 616 Jessamine Street.

Dawn Distler, director of Knoxville Area Transit, will provide an overview of the system, along with KAT’s efforts to reach out to various parts of the Knoxville community and to increase ridership.

In addition, staff from the Office of Neighborhoods will solicit ideas from NAC members for the next Neighborhood Awards and Networking Luncheon that will take place on Saturday, March 5, 2016, at the Knoxville Convention Center. Other items may be discussed. The public is invited to attend and participate.

2. Renters Get Discount for Attending Neighborhood Meetings

Out-of-state landlords often fail to get sterling reviews from neighborhood organizations, and the reasons are well known: poor maintenance, failure to adequately screen tenants, and (sometimes) a very clear lack of concern for the neighborhood in which their properties are located.

But the “irresponsible absentee landlord” label does not apply to Jeremiah and Jessica Parunak, who lived in Oakwood Lincoln Park for three years before deciding to move to Georgia. Instead of selling their house in Knoxville, they decided to rent it.

Although never heavily involved in the Oakwood Lincoln Park Neighborhood Association (OLPNA), the Parunaks do believe in it and want to see the neighborhood grow and prosper. So they came up with this idea: allow their tenants to reduce rent payments by $25/month for each month they attend a neighborhood meeting.
Their tenants are Rebecca Bratcher and Lindsey Duddles, who moved to Knoxville recently to join AmeriCorps. At first, the two admit, they attended the meetings just to get the discount, but they now realize they are reaping other benefits. They have learned about the challenges facing this particular neighborhood --- and they are meeting their neighbors.

“We plan on continuing to go to the meetings not only for the free food and the nearly $300 savings over the next year,” Bratcher noted, “but also because it was informative and interesting.”

For members of the Millennial generation, such as Bratcher and Duddles, renting is preferable to buying a home and not just because of college debt and low income. Some Millennials just like the flexibility of being able to pull up stakes easily until they are really ready to settle down.

Regardless of age, many Knoxvillians rent their homes out of pure necessity. With the Great Recession, some lost their homes to foreclosure. Others are unable to obtain financing to buy a home. Across the board, due to stagnant wages, the money is just not there for a down payment.

“Renting itself isn't a bad thing,” noted Molly Conaway, a member of the OLPNA board, “but it is hard to see renters who don’t care about the community and landlords who don’t care about the impact their tenants have.”

On the other hand, Conaway thinks the Parunaks’ incentive program is “brilliant” and really helps to show the community that the landlord and tenants are invested in the neighborhood.

Similarly, Jeremiah Parunak thought this approach might help combat a negative stereotype that landlords and renters get. He wants the association to know that he is “renting quality housing to quality tenants.”

Conaway challenged other renters and landlords not to “live above their neighborhood” but rather to put down roots and get involved.

3. Include Renters in Your Neighborhood Association

One of the key questions for neighborhood associations in single family neighborhoods is whether to limit membership to homeowners… or actively recruit all residents, including renters.

One argument against spending time on recruiting renters is that they tend to be more transient than homeowners, but this is not always the case. Some renters remain in the same home for years, particularly in well-tended properties.

Another argument against renter inclusion is that renters have no equity in their homes and therefore are not concerned about property values. On the other hand, a neighborhood’s property values are tied to the quality of all housing in the neighborhood and to the character of the neighborhood in general. It is safe to say that most renters, like most homeowners, care about the safety of their families and about the quality of the neighborhood in which they live.

On the positive side, renters may have chosen to live in your neighborhood because they like the area. You can build on that choice. Plus, they could end up as homeowners. See this article for other reasons to reach out to renters:

4. Resisting Arrest: How Police Officers Respond

What should you do if you are placed under arrest by a law enforcement officer? How do Knoxville police officers respond when a citizen resists arrest?

These questions will be addressed at the regular quarterly meeting of the City of Knoxville’s Police Advisory & Review Committee (PARC) at 6 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 15, at Cansler YMCA, 616 Jessamine Street. Sgt. Shane Watson of the Knoxville Police Department will explain how officers are trained to respond when a citizen resists arrest.

PARC exists to strengthen the relationship between members of the Knoxville Police Department and the citizens they serve through an independent review of police actions. Appointed by the Mayor, PARC reviews incidents involving police action following the conclusion of Internal Affairs investigations.

Pursuant to City Ordinance 0-194-01, PARC has the power to receive, investigate, hear cases, make findings on complaints and disclose those findings to the Mayor and the Chief of Police.

Citizens can register formal or anonymous complaints with PARC’s executive director,
Avis Reid, at areid@knoxvilleetn.gov or 215-3869.

5. Codes Inspections Available for Neighborhood Meetings

Have you or a neighbor ever received a letter from the City of Knoxville’s Neighborhood Codes Enforcement and wondered what to do? Or have you questioned why some properties seem to receive violations while others do not?

If you would like to learn more about what constitutes a violation, how it is enforced, and how to handle a problem property in your neighborhood, a member of your neighborhood organization can request that a Codes Enforcement official speak at your meeting.

Enforcement is mostly proactive, but roughly 35 percent of all inspections is complaint based, starting with citizen calls to the 311 Call Center.

Codes Enforcement also conducts neighborhood code sweeps about twice a year. A neighborhood representative can request to have a sweep or to simply meet with the codes inspector in your area. The information gleaned from this can be shared with other members of a neighborhood group.

For more, contact Cheri Hollifield at 865-215-2867 or chollifield@knoxvilleetn.gov.
6. MPC Schedules Third Sector Plan Meeting

The Metropolitan Planning Commission (MPC) has scheduled a third public meeting for the Northeast County Sector Plan Update.

The meeting will be held from 6-7 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 20, at East Knox Elementary School, 9315 Rutledge Pike. For more on the draft plan, background report, and meeting, visit http://www.knoxmpc.org/northeastcounty/index.htm. Or contact Bryan Berry at bryan.berry@knoxmpc.org or 215-3743.

7. Brush Collection Ends Soon

The City of Knoxville’s Public Service Department will pick up brush in residential neighborhoods through Friday, Oct. 30, and then switch its trucks to leaf pickup for the months of November, December and January.

Since brush is collected in Knoxville every other week, residents have one more chance for brush pickup this fall.

Knoxville residents can find out when their brush will be picked up by visiting the City’s website at www.knoxvilletn.gov. Click on ‘I want to’, select ‘Find’ and then choose ‘Brush/Leaf Pickup’. Or you can call 311 and give the operator your address.

Starting in late October, leaves should be raked to the edge of your yard in one continuous row within five feet of the street. Do not block storm drains and drainage ditches. Also, please do not rake leaves into the street: They are a safety hazard, and they get crushed and scattered by passing cars.

Please Note! The City will not pick up mixed piles of leaves, brush, and other refuse, because the leaf collection equipment is designed to vacuum leaves only and can be damaged by brush. Leaves raked to the alley will be picked up last.

8. Look Again: You May Qualify for Weatherization Upgrades

Are you struggling with utility bills? Does your home need energy efficiency upgrades? The Knoxville Extreme Energy Makeover program (KEEM) may be able to help.

KEEM provides free whole-home energy efficiency upgrades to electric-heated homes built before 1995 and occupied by income-eligible applicants living in the City of Knoxville. Renters are eligible, but they must apply and have landlord approval.

Income eligibility is based on household income. Maximum household income is $34,550 for a single individual, $39,450 for a two-person household, $44,400 for a family of three, and so on. Eligibility and other application requirements may be found at www.KEEMteam.com.

To apply for an energy upgrade, visit the offices of the Knoxville Knox County Community Action Agency (CAC), 2247 Western Avenue, between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on week days.
Specific improvements depend on the needs of each home, but the upgrades are designed to reduce each home’s annual electricity use by at least 25 percent. Common projects include installation of weather stripping, upgrades of heating units, air sealing, and insulation of walls, ducts, pipes and attics.

9. Volunteer to Help Open Streets Knoxville

If you are already thinking about joining the fun at Open Streets Knoxville at the end of this month, why not volunteer to help make the event a success?

Volunteers are still needed. If interested, visit https://www.volunteersignup.org/TJ9LE or contact Volunteer Coordinator Trey Joiner at jeromel.joiner@gmail.com.

Bike Walk Knoxville --- working closely with the City of Knoxville and other partners --- is well underway in making preparations for this unique collection of events that will unfold over a one-mile stretch of North Central Avenue from 1-4 p.m. on Sunday, October 25.

The City of Knoxville’s police and traffic engineering departments will close Central to motorized traffic from the Old City to Happy Holler.

Along the one-mile, car-free route, there will be a host of free activities, including yoga, arts and crafts, bike polo, dancing, jump rope, dance performances, a photo booth, One World Circus, hula hoops and much more. Food trucks will set up along the route. Elementary, middle, and high school students will participate in a pennant banner art competition.

10. Volunteer Opportunities Abound in Knoxville

If volunteering to work in your neighborhood organization is not filling up the time you have available to give back to your community, here are two upcoming events that require additional volunteers:

CAC AmeriCorps, looking to celebrate Make-a-Difference Day on Saturday, Oct. 24, is seeking help from neighborhood groups and others to clean up a stream in East Knoxville, help maintain a hiking trail, remove litter, and do some gardening at the Knoxville Botanical Gardens. These activities will take place from 9 a.m. until noon. Meet at the Community Evangelistic Church, 2650 Boyds Bridge Pike. Visit http://tinyurl.com/MADD-AmeriCorps to learn more or to sign up.

Also on Oct. 24, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., Red Cross of East Tennessee and the Knoxville Fire Department need help installing free smoke detectors in north Knoxville neighborhoods, including Oakwood Lincoln Park and part of Old North Knoxville. Meet at the Oakwood Lincoln Park Clubhouse on Shamrock Avenue. If you can devote part of your Saturday for this fire safety event, contact Rebecca McIver --- the emergency preparedness specialist in the Office of Neighborhoods --- at rmciver@knoxvilletn.gov or 215-3456.

See http://www.volunteerknoxville.org to find other volunteer jobs or post an activity that needs volunteers.
11. Knoxville SOUP Seeks Applicants for Micro Funding

South Knoxville Alliance (SKA) --- a business and professional association in South Knoxville --- will hold its third Knoxville SOUP, a micro-funding event and dinner, starting at 6 p.m. Thursday, November 5, at Woodlawn Christian Church, 4339 Woodlawn Pike.

Anyone interested in receiving funds for a project is encouraged to complete an application at www.KnoxvilleSOUP.org no later than October 29. From those that apply, four individuals or teams will be selected to present their project at the dinner, and they will be notified no later than November 2.

Separately, artists are encouraged to apply to have their art showcased at the event.

The suggested donation is $5.00 at the door, but more can be given. All donations collected at the door go to the project winner at the end of the evening. Proposals will be presented at 6:30 p.m., followed by dinner. Votes will be tallied by 8:15 p.m., and the winner will be announced.

The first Knoxville SOUP supported the rejuvenation of the Mary Vestal Park and Greenway Extension. The second Knoxville SOUP donation went to South Knox Food Co-op.

For more, email soup@SouthKnoxvilleAlliance.org or call 865-309-4020.

12. Kickstand Bike Shop Seeks Donated Space in East Knoxville

The KickStand Community Bike Shop --- the nonprofit dedicated to repairing donated bikes and giving them to those most in need of alternate forms of transportation and recreation --- is seeking donated space to repair bicycles and teach bike repair in East Knoxville.

“We are an all-volunteer group dedicated to learning about bikes, teaching bike repair and maintaining a community shop space that is available to those interested in learning bike repair to keep their bikes working and safe,” explained Paul Laudeman.

Kickstand was formerly located at Tribe One on Magnolia Avenue but lost that space when Tribe One closed some years ago. It is now housed at the Fourth Presbyterian Church on North Broadway but would like to add a second shop in East Knoxville.

“A space in East Knoxville would greatly enhance our mission,” Laudeman says. If your business or organization has space to donate to this unique service, please contact Laudeman at 560-6667 or kickstandknoxville@gmail.com.

Visit http://www.knoxbikecollective.com for more on the organization and its partners, supporters and programs. Look for Kickstand at the Open Streets event on the last Sunday of this month (see article above).
13. Neighborhood and Government Calendar

Include your neighborhood-related event or meeting in this space. Call 215-4382.

Visit http://knoxvilletn.gov/calendar for a complete list of meetings of various city boards and commissions.

If you are a person with a disability who requires an accommodation in order to attend a City of Knoxville public meeting, please contact Stephanie Brewer Cook at scook@knoxvilletn.gov or 215-2034 no less than 72 hours prior to the meeting you wish to attend. For an English interpreter, contact Joshalyn Hundley, Title VI Coordinator, at 865.215.3867 or at jhundley@knoxvilletn.gov.
